Terms and Conditions:

Cancellations:

When you make a booking and have paid the deposit, a legally-binding contract exists between you and the Trust that cannot be cancelled unless there are exceptional circumstances.

If you cancel after paying the balance, we shall only be able to refund the payment if an alternative, Trustee-approved artist has been found to take up the residency. This means you may still remain liable to pay in full, even if you are unable to take up your residency at Brisons Veor. You may wish to consider taking out cancellation insurance from a reputable supplier.

Liability:

Artists are expected to have their own Public Liability Insurance. (This is a service that is offered by SAA or to members of A-N, the artists network; it is included with their membership fee.)

We are not insured for your personal belongings or for the use of hazardous materials or equipment. As far as the law allows, the Trustees of the Brisons Veor Charitable Trust take no responsibility for loss, damage or injury to the resident artist or beneficiary as a consequence of the residency contract.
